Join us to learn about several tools to evaluate your "cyber-health" and resources you can use to clean up your data-sharing habits online. Learn the basics of personal cybersecurity, best practices for keeping your data safe online, tips for becoming more cybersecurity aware, and recommendations for keeping yourself, colleagues, and students protected against new and emerging threats. In addition, digital citizenship and online safety play a role in the school ecosystem. In particular, we'll focus on how educators can help create and maintain positive online experiences for all learners. This session will also demonstrate how digital citizenship and online safety can be integrated into classrooms to create positive lifelong habits for all students.
