Children who carry chronic behavioral challenges are often met with reactive and punitive practices that can potentially reactivate the developing stress response systems.

This book study will address the need for co-regulatory and relational practices, shifting student-focused behavior management protocols to adult regulated brain and body states which are brain aligned, preventative, and relational discipline protocols.

The last third of the book is filled with resources and strategies that you can implement in your classrooms immediately to help children connect, heal, and move into a positive life trajectory.
